“Food for Thought” Training Seminar

“Same Subject – Different Perspective”

Sending a FOIA request to an agency usually is a pretty simple thing to do. On the other hand, answering a FOIA request is usually not so simple. Since ASAP formed in 1980 to bring together agency folks and requesters, we have witnessed sophistication in the entire process. Yet the fundamental issues remain when an agency wonders, “What does the requester really want?” and the requester wonders, “What’s the hold up on my request?” A few longtime ASAP members and friends have the benefit of seeing the process from different perspectives as they have moved from the requester community to inside the federal government. Come and listen as ASAP past presidents Sheryl Walter and Miriam Nisbet candidly discuss their lessons learned, gained insights and practical advice for best practices.

Confirmed Presenters:

Sheryl Walter, Department of State (Ms. Walter has worked on various commissions, but most ASAP members will remember that she was general counsel with the National Security Archive, 1989-1995)

Miriam Nisbet, Office of Government Information Services, NARA (Ms. Nisbet was the director, Information Society Division for the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO). Previous to this, she was legislative counsel for the Washington Office of the American Library Association.
